: The impact of foreign-owned firms in the EU and Germany

In times of Trump and Brexit, protectionist tendencies seem to be a global trend. The advantages that economic interconnectedness implies are increasingly receding into the background. The calculations of Copenhagen Economics on behalf of Bertelsmann Stiftung show, however, that foreign-owned firms make a considerable contribution to employment and gross domestic product (GDP) in the EU and Germany.

You can download figures here:

- Spillovers by foreign-owned firms
- Jobs supported by foreign-owned firms in Germany
- GDP supported by foreign-owned firms in Germany

- PDF

Grafiken auf englisch für die Projektnachricht "Are Services Sick?". Grafiken von Jürgen Schultheiß, Upload für Sabine Feige.

Jürgen Schultheiß

Grafiken auf englisch für die Projektnachricht "Are Services Sick?". Grafiken von Jürgen Schultheiß, Upload für Sabine Feige.

Jürgen Schultheiß

Grafiken auf englisch für die Projektnachricht "Are Services Sick?". Grafiken von Jürgen Schultheiß, Upload für Sabine Feige.

Jürgen Schultheiß

Go here to download the study.

Go here to download the policy brief.

Project:
Global Economic Dynamics (GED)