

Bertelsmann Stiftung (Hrsg.)

Policy Brief 3 / 2019 – A conflict line through Germany or a new East–West divide?

2019 (PDF)

kostenlos

 In den Warenkorb

 Download

Are Eastern Germans “wired” differently? The results of the recent state elections in Thuringia, Brandenburg and Saxony appear to support this hypothesis. But, more than anything, they reflect new lines of conflict in society that are very similar in Eastern and Western Germany. This also applies to the election results of the right-wing populist Alternative for Germany (AfD) party.

Projekt

- Monitoring der Demokratie

ANSPRECHPARTNER

Dr. Robert Vehrkamp

