The debate on global governance must reflect the global realities of an ever more interconnected and interdependent globalized world. Such a world requires listening to voices from all its corners, with no region dominating. It is in this spirit we have asked world leaders and distinguished experts from Africa, Asia, the Gulf Region, Europe, and North and South America to provide their responses in recorded interviews to important questions of global governance.

At the Global Policy Council Meeting of the Bertelsmann Stiftung in March 2009 Henry A. Kissinger, former Secretary of State of the United States of America, talks about the new architecture of global governance.
